

David M. Smith began his career as an astrophysicist, receiving his PhD at the University of California, Berkeley, in 1993. His research for the past 15 years has centered on high-energy radiation and particle acceleration in lightning. He is a Professor of Physics at the University of California, Santa Cruz, and was recently elected as President-Elect of the Atmospheric and Space Electricity section of the American Geophysical Union.